Work, with an open mind

In an age where businesses compete not just for the best customers but for the best employees, one of the ways to attract and retain those people is to work in environments that are built for wellness and well being. Well designed spaces that are filled with natural light and green outdoor areas to escape for some fresh air are all reasons your people will be proud to work in your business.

One Temple Row is a building focused on work, with an open mind. As a space it has been re-imagined to create the very best experience for the people who walk in every day. The comprehensive refurbishment has included the construction of one of Birmingham's largest roof terraces and introduced new leisure amenities and new design features.

One Temple Row is a building that is actually good for you.

Availability

Floor plates have been designed to allow the greatest flexibility of space and a number of configurations are available to suit the size of your business.

The whole 12th floor is available and fully refurbished with unparalleled views across the city. There are part and whole floors available throughout the building and the 3rd floor has been split to accommodate smaller requirements offering a unique dedicated roof terrace space.
